WAR CRITICISM.

"What do you know about war?" said a militia corporal to his wife, who had kindly chided him for the awkwardness of his movements, while he was preparing himself by personal training at home for that trying ordeal, the general muster. Probably the wife did not know much about war, but she had a natural pride in her husband, and wished him to make a respectable appearance on parade. And her common sense taught her, that if going through the motions meant war, the corporal knew quite as little about it as she.

The case of the corporal and his wife resembles the "situation" in this country to-day. The nation is menaced with destruction. A desperate enemy has marshalled his hundreds of thousands to the execution. The yell of the savage with his faithful tomahawk, and the haughty speech of the chivalrous chief who have plotted the conspiracy, breathe the same spirit of death to the nation through courage and blood. Against this merciless foe, at our country's call, we have sent our sons and brothers, and our intelligent hosts, armed with superior civilization, and the grandest military resources, have gone forth to encounter the enemy of our free institutions. Through the mistaken policy of our Government, and the half-heartedness and incompetency of many of our military leaders, costly and undeniable blunders have been committed. The people, intensely anxious for the fate of their country, have murmured aloud, and the answer to those murmurs from the source of power has invariably been, "What do you know about war?"

If the loyal press presumes to criticize military blunders, and breathe in the ears of our leaders, the voice of the people, it is threatened with the gloomy contemplation of the inner walls of the Bastille. If it protest in the name of our gallant soldiery, against ditch-digging by our troops, which has lost us more men than the battle-field, it is hushed into silence by the never failing cry of "strategy"; great military science which is going to conquer an active enemy by preparing for an attack, and end the war by masterly inactivity, without striking a blow. If it denounces the use of our brave troops for the return of fugitives to rebel claimants, and the protection of traitors' property, authority cries "Hold or we lose the support of the border States." If it counsels the employment of negroes in any manner their hairy muscles and loyal hearts make them capable of serving our cause, the plea of the offended sensibilities of the border States, and the sympathizing Democratic officers of the army is set up; the cry of "radicalism" and "abolitionism" starts from Washington, and the voice of the people is drowned by the clamor of traitor sympathizers for conciliation and compromise.

Our brothers may die in the ditches. But we must keep our mouths shut. "Strategy" may lead to reverse; but what right have we to mention it? "What do we know about war?" A twelve month may be frittered away by costly inaction. But what is that to the people? It is their business to furnish the men and means, and the appropriation of both must be left to the Government, controlled by "military genius and strategy," without a word of comment or rebuke for mismanagement—no criticism under pain of proscription. Kentucky, too, may have her neutrality jostled by the daring exploits of the rebel chief, Morgan, and Missouri may be overrun and desolated by guerrilla bands—Magellan and Gamble may look quietly on with their state militia, without offering the loyal people relief. It's not the business of these Governors to assist in putting down rebellion. Their mission is to conciliate traitors, guard their property, and nurse the institution that breeds murderous raids. Yet neither the press nor the loyal people must say this aloud, or you avail the policy of putting down the rebellion without hurting anybody, and show too little regard for the "susceptibilities" of the guardians of human slavery. Criticisms on the war must not be allowed, or the plans of the President makers will come to naught.

"What do you know about war?"

WHAT A TESTAMENT DID.

It used to make me shudder to have Willie lie on the house, he was so profane. Many times I have called my little ones from their play, when I have seen Willie passing the house, as he drove a neighbor's cows to and from the pasture. Such vulgar and profane language I had never heard from the lips of a child. One day a lady called him to her.

"Do you go to school, Willie?"
A gruff "No," was the only reply.
"Can you read?"
"No, not much; and don't want to."
The lady patted the boy. He had no encouragement or instruction at home. His parents were very poor, and what is far worse, vicious, and the people with whom he lived saw little to encourage them to instruct him. After a few kind inquiries,

"Will you call a minute as you go back Willie?"
He assented, with a look of wonder, and she procured a new Testament, and wrote his name in it. In due time he called, seemed pleased at the interest the lady felt in him, and promised her that he would try to pick out at least one verse a day in his New Testament, and that he would go to meeting the next Sabbath.

A year has passed. Among those who steadily worship at your sanctuary there is not a more punctual or attentive worshipper than Willie H. I love to watch him, as he sits with his eyes riveted on the minister, seeming to drink in every word he utters. The same little Testament-reader is seen in the Sabbath school as often as the week comes round, with his lesson well learned, and his hair neatly brushed back from a fine open brow, and his clean "go-to-meeting suit." You would not recognize him as the ragged, rough, vulgar boy of a year ago. He still passes his hours with his daily errand, but the children are no longer called away at his approach. He is as modest and respectful as he was formerly rude and profane.

A ROMISH PREACHER.

Earnest evangelical preachers were not infrequent in the Romish church before Luther, and though the number has lessened since the reformation, they are still to be found, doing a good work among their people. We find the following sketch in the Recorder:

We find in an exchange an account of a sermon which was recently delivered in a papal cathedral in an Eastern city. The writer wandered into the building, and heard what he pronounced one of the most forcible, practical Christian discourses he had listened to for many months.

The text, "A blind man sat by the wayside, begging," was handled most ingeniously and effectively. After a somewhat rambling introduction, the preacher spoke of the text in its figurative sense as applying to sinners of this and all times. All sinners are blind; blind to their true happiness, and helpless while they remain in sin. The next word, "sat," is significant. "Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful."

This is the course of all transgressors; first they disquietly "walk" in sin; then they "stand" with composure in evil, until at last they so far overcome their apprehensions under the ever-lasting effect of iniquity, as to sit deliberately down—that is, dwell or abide in wickedness. The "wayside" is, of course, the world; and typifies the course of the sinner, who, blind to the delights of religion, and feeling the evil caused by his poverty, resorts to the world for some solace in his barrenness and misery. "Beggaring"—surely every sinner is a beggar. Having lost the favor of God, which alone makes him rich, he is of all men most needy.

This is of course, but a meagre outline of the discourse, which now took the form of personal application and appeal. "How many of you are thus begging in blindness at the wayside?" And here the speaker pointed out affectionately what they must do to receive their sight, and urged immediate action. And I was struck by the singular liberality of many of his sentiments.

TO HORSE OWNERS.

Dr. Sweet's Infallible Liniment

FOR HORSES.

Is unrivaled by any and in all cases of lameness, arising from Sprains, Bruises or Wrenching. Its effect is magical and certain. Barren or Saddle Galls, Strains, Mange, &c., it will also cure speedily. Sprains and Lameness may be easily prevented and cured in their incipient stages, but confirmed cases are beyond the possibility of a radical cure. No cure of the kind, however, is so desperate or hopeless but it may be alleviated by this Liniment, and its faithful application will always remove the Lameness, and enable the horse to travel with comparative ease.

Every horse owner should have this remedy at hand, for its timely use at the first appearance of lameness will effectively prevent those formidable diseases mentioned, to which all horses are liable, and which render so many otherwise valuable horses nearly worthless.

TWO AND A HALF O'CLOCK.

FROM THE COMBINED ARMIES.

The Nation's Crisis Past.

THE GREAT RETREAT

SUCCESSFUL.

The Army Safe and Washington Safe.

New York, 26th.

The Tribune's Rappahannock correspondent states that the greatest crisis of this war occurred between Thursday morning and Saturday night. It is passed and we are safe—Washington is safe—our Army is safe—the Nation is safe. Gen. Pope's army is now guarding the line of the Rappahannock and Fitz John Porter with a heavy force joined Gen. Pope on Friday evening. A host of regiments have joined and are joining him by way of Alexandria, and you may now look for the grand movements of the war within 30 days.

Gen. Burnside has massed a large army at Fredericksburg and Gen. Pope is nearly or quite as strong as Lee and Jackson and Gen. McClellan is freed from the net which whether self woven or not held him in its grasp on the Peninsula.

A GREAT DISASTER.

Some stir was caused in camp and a thousand times more in Washington I find by a sudden raid of 250 guerrillas upon Calcutta Station under cover of the night. Twenty supply trains were destroyed and their contents injured by the rebels. A hundred prisoners and many horses were taken and all the private papers and letters of Gen. Pope, copies of despatches and reports, memoranda relating to the campaign and to the army, copies of telegrams sent, all despatches received from the President, Halleck and the War Department, orders issued to Generals of the corps and divisions, all maps and topographical charts containing information of the greatest value, in a word the whole history and campaign, the numbers and disposition of troops, all are revealed to the enemy by this disaster. Its seriousness can hardly be estimated. It is taking the rebel General into the confidence of Gen. Halleck and may render it necessary to change the whole campaign.

MORE ABOUT THE DISPATCHES.

New York, 26.

The Washington correspondent of the Tribune says relative to the important capture of papers, despatches and baggage that the whole might have been saved and the attack repulsed if there had been pickets or even sentries about the Camp, but there has not been a guard mounting at Headquarters since Gen. Pope took the field, a piece of carelessness for which has paid a heavy penalty.

KEEPING THE NEWS BACK.

The same correspondent says this news would be telegraphed if it were possible, but the orders of Gen. Halleck exclude from the telegraph everything relating to the Army of Virginia. The people of the North it seems are to be treated like children or cowards, who must not hear or dare not bear the truth.

FROM MCCLELLAN.

The Washington correspondent of the Times states that the main portion of Gen. McClellan's army has reached Alexandria, and will soon join Gen. Pope's army.

STEAMER NEWS.

FASTER POINT, 26th.

The steamship Hibernian passed this point at 4.40 a.m. She has 100 cabin and 112 steerage passengers. She passed the steamship Jura on the 24th bound out. Her news was received from Cape Race. The steamship North American arrived at Liverpool on the 13th.
